Autumn is a time for joy and celebration. The bountiful goodness of creation and the fruits of another year calls us to all our senses. Autumn and its harvest often bring a reward for our labours. As the earth bears fruit we also grow and mature, we develop and realise new talents. Autumn is not so much a time to quantify and measure but to rejoice in who we are and what is around us.

Julian of Norwich, one of the first British female writers who lived at the same time as Chaucer, describes one of the most meaningful of autumn moments.

Standing with a small nut in her hand, Julian says,

“He showed me in my palm a little thing as round as a ball about the size of a hazelnut . I looked at it with the eye of understanding and asked myself ‘what is this thing?’ And I was answered ‘it is everything that is created.’ I marvelled that it could last for I thought it might have crumbled to nothing because it was so small. And the answer came into my mind ‘it lasts and ever shall because God loves it. And all things have their being through the love of God.’

In this little thing I saw three truths. The first is that God made it. The second is that God loves it. The third is that God looks after it. What is God indeed that is maker and lover and keeper ? I cannot find words to tell . For until I am one with God I can never have true rest nor peace.”

Yours

A Phone Ministry

During the past months I have been unable to visit folk due to Covid restrictions and have resorted to keeping in touch by phone. We like to think we are all different from each other but the reality is that broadly speaking we fell into two groups. Initially most of us were shocked and bewildered when faced with lockdown and our lives were turned upside down. But attitudes rapidly changed. Over the weeks again and again I heard the same thing, people were happy to be able to have a break from “life.” New hobbies were found or old ones resurrected, we had time to think and many people went on an almost spiritual journey.

However some people found lockdown very difficult and just couldn’t accept the restrictions. They developed “cabin fever” and felt very down. I had many phone conversations where people shared their secrets about what they had done and where they had been and the rule breaking “steak dinner party” they had shared with friends!

Then a few weeks ago attitudes suddenly seem to change again. We had all “had enough.” A long difficult winter was predicted and a sense of dread kicked in. Many conversations turned to postponed NHS operations and particularly the lack of dental and podiatry appointments. Others wanted to share their worries about families. Would loved ones lose their jobs, would they catch the virus?

So are my phone calls deeply spiritual and faith filled? Well probably not! But hopefully they provide a listening ear and give folk an opportunity to share their feelings and worries. Perhaps this is a time for us all to pick up the phone and call someone that lives alone, to try and ease some of the loneliness that is so prevalent at the moment.

My phone number is 721449 and I am always happy to chat!

God bless,

June

St Magnus Centre

Thanks to St Magnus Centre Management Committee for all their diligence in the many tasks asked of them, from dealing with the furlough scheme, to organising booking cancellations and refunds, ensuring the accounts are in order and investigating and applying for support schemes, preparation and risk assessments prior to potentially opening. It continues to be a long road but the Committee have been unstinting in their efforts.

This is the happy occasion of the wedding of Zoe Garrioch and Lyle Swanson on 22nd September. The first service in the Cathedral since March. Many thanks to the custodians for facilitating this and to the couple and their family who were all 'on message' to enable the wedding to happen.

The Cathedral, through the good offices of Helen Killeen, one of our Elders, tries to send cards of sympathy to Cathedral folk who have been bereaved. If you have any information about people who have been bereaved please let Helen know so she can arrange a card.

Helen's contact details are email. hmkilleen@talk21.com or phone 878 262.

Helen would prefer to hear several times rather than not at all, so please don't leave such information for others to pass on!

Those we remember

We have sadly lost some prominent members of our congregation in recent times. Obviously we have not been able to say goodbye as we would have liked but here is a short extract from their funeral services.

Milly Shearer

It would be fair to say that they broke the mould when Millie was created. Such a unique person who brought light life and laughter to all whom she encountered. Who, in many ways saw the world differently from most of us but always in a life-enhancing fashion, for the benefit of others. The mischievous glint in the eye, the whispered aside, the insistence of a kiss from the minister dressed in full regalia [much to the horror of some of our stricter Presbyterians] her observations of all the varieties of humanity captured in her cartoons. It would be not idle speculation to think that were she born a generation or two later she would have made a career in comedy, she had such a range of talents which brightened all our lives in so many different ways.

Dennis Eunson

Dennis was someone who always took a great interest in people and what they were up to next. Someone who loved a yarn. Dennis lived a good and full life and was someone who got a lot out of life because he put a lot into life.

That interest in other people was anchored with his strong faith and honest values which he carried throughout his life, and exercised through his role as a Cathedral elder and as a member of the Cathedral choir for many years.

Edmond Reid

For many years he served as an Elder in the Cathedral a role, which he really enjoyed, involving himself in all the different tasks. Never a man to waste words, he nevertheless, with his cheery demeanour would quietly and disarmingly put his point forward. Essentially a quiet and private person who enjoyed his own company, Edmond's sunny disposition would brighten anyone's day.

Jenny King [guild member Gladys Leslie writes]

Jenny King was a woman who never sought the limelight but in her own quiet way made a valuable contribution to the cathedral. As a member of the guild she gave her time and talents - rising very early on Coffee Morning days, providing delicious home baking for the sales table. With no transport, members of the committee would collect her donations and on entering Mounthoolie Place it was akin to stepping into the local bakery.

Bill Wright

If one were to single out a quality that most perfectly imaged Bill Wright's character, one would say that he was a gentleman, in the classic sense of the word. He was a long standing Elder of the St Magnus Cathedral and a bell ringer. He was a man of huge intellect and great wisdom and everyone who had the privilege to know him is the better for having had the chance to spend some time with a true gentleman.
